Good afternoon s9(2)(a)

For your information, the NZ Anti-Vivisection Society (NZAVS) has today made this appeal in conjunction with another animal rights issue motivated group (IMG) HUANZ (Helping You Help Animals) calling on the Government to establish a 'retirement' policy for all laboratory animals in New Zealand. There has been no expressed mention of AgResearch in relation to this campaign at this time, but that of course may change. See below.

Help the thousands of lab animals in NZ who are killed because they are either are no longer needed or are surplus from breeding units. Although animal testing should never happen in the first place, until laws and regulations are up to speed with factual and scientific evidence, we need to make sure that these victims have a life out of the lab. NZAVS and HUANZ are calling for the Government to adopt a retirement policy for ex-lab animals! Help us and sign the petition now - change.org/p/out-of-the-labs

Doris was used to breed dogs for testing in New Zealand, luckily she ended up in a loving home. Thousands of animals never do, they're killed when they're no longer being used.

YOU CAN CHANGE THAT.
