

Dr Ashley Bloomfield

Patron of Wing 336

Dr Ashley Bloomfield is Director-General of Health and Chief Executive of the Ministry of Health, a role that oversees the implementation of New Zealand's health strategy.

He is a highly respected leader in the health sector, who brings vast experience from working across the New Zealand health system and overseas.

Dr Bloomfield qualified in medicine at the University of Auckland in 1990 and after several years of clinical work he specialised in public health medicine, qualifying as a public health physician in 1999.

His particular area of professional interest is non-communicable disease prevention and control, and he spent 2011 at the World Health Organisation in Geneva working on this topic at a global level.

Before starting as Director-General, Dr Bloomfield was Chief Executive at Hutt Valley District Health Board from 2015 to 2018.

Prior to that, he held a number of senior leadership roles within the Ministry of Health. From 2012 to 2015 he was Director of Service Integration and Development and General Manager Population Health at Capital & Coast, Hutt and Wairarapa District Health Boards.

Sir Kim Workman KNZM QSO

Patron of Wing 334

Sir Kim Workman has been an advocate of prison and justice reform over many years. He is considered an expert in restorative justice and continues to foster public dialogue about social justice.

Of Ngāti Kahungunu and Rangitāne descent, Sir Kim grew up in the Wairarapa and has strong ancestral links to Kāpiti.

He joined the New Zealand Police in the 1950s rising to the rank of senior sergeant over his 18-year police career. He then held roles in the Office of the Ombudsman, State Services Commission, Department of Māori Affairs, and Ministry of Health. He was Head of the Prison Service from 1989–1993 during which time he started a programme of prison reform.

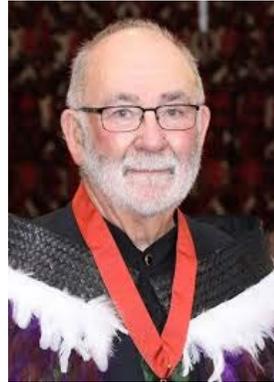

On retiring from the public sector in 1996 Sir Kim continued to work on making a better prison system. He supported the establishment of the first kaupapa Māori-based prison units in the country and the first faith-based prison unit in the Commonwealth.

Sir Kim has created strategies to help communities provide better support to prisoners and their families, and has introduced innovations in restorative justice.

He was National Director of Prison Fellowship from 2000–2008 and served as Families Commissioner from 2008–2011.

He is a graduate of Massey University, and has completed post-graduate study at the University of Southern California and at Stanford University. In 2016, Kim was awarded the degree of Doctor of Literature (DLitt Well) by the Council of Victoria University, and in 2017, the same degree by the Council of Massey University.

In 2005 Sir Kim was the joint recipient of the International Prize for Restorative Justice. He was made a Companion of the Queen's Service Order in 2007, was a semi-finalist for the 2013 Kiwibank New Zealander of the Year Award, and named Senior New Zealander of the Year in 2018. In 2019 he was made a Knight Companion of the New Zealand Order of Merit for his services to prisoner welfare and the justice sector.

Chief Coroner Judge Deborah Marshall

Patron of Wing 331

Chief Coroner Judge Deborah Marshall has been New Zealand's chief coroner since 2015, a role that leads the team of coroners and monitors the implementation of coroners' recommendations.

After completing a Bachelor of Arts, Judge Marshall joined New Zealand Police in 1977. She became a detective in the Auckland Criminal Investigation Branch where she specialised in fraud investigations.

With about nine years in Police behind her, she made a career change, initially working as a flight attendant then as an investigator in the Serious Fraud Office (SFO).

While she was with the SFO Judge Marshall worked on some of the SFO's largest criminal trials. She also began to study towards her Bachelor of Laws (Hons), which she continued while working as an investigator for the Privacy Commissioner.

In 2001 she joined Meredith Connell, the Office of the Crown Solicitor in Auckland, as a prosecutor. She became a senior crown prosecutor and a partner in that firm in 2003.

During her time at Meredith Connell, Judge Marshall was involved in criminal prosecutions and was also on the medico-legal team, acting as counsel in inquests and providing advice to many health-related organisations.

After leaving Meredith Connell in 2011, Judge Marshall worked part-time as general counsel for the Serious Fraud Office and was a legal advisor to Professional Conduct Committees set up by the Medical Council of New Zealand.

In January 2013 she was appointed as a coroner in Auckland, and in February 2015 she was appointed the chief coroner and a District Court judge.

Ranjna Patel ONZM, QSM

Patron of Wing 330

Ranjna Patel is a leader in the Auckland community who has committed herself to bringing quality, affordable health care to vulnerable groups and working to help reduce family harm in New Zealand.

She is also passionate about women's leadership, diversity and inclusion.

With her husband Kanti, Ranjna set up East Tamaki Healthcare in 1977. From one small GP clinic, she and her husband have grown the business to 45 clinics. Now named Tamaki Health, the clinics serve nearly 220,000 registered patients, and deliver after-hours care to 75% of Aucklanders.

Ranjna is a founding member of Gandhi Nivas, a family violence programme for men of all ethnicities. New Zealand Police refers men who have either been issued with a Police Safety Order or are involved in family harm. It offers free counselling, emergency housing, and referral to social services.

Ranjna's extensive involvement in charitable and community groups saw her honoured with a Queen's Service Medal (QSM) in 2009 and a New Zealand Order of Merit (ONZM) in 2017. She has been a Justice of the Peace and marriage celebrant since 1996.

Her work as a business leader has been recognised through many awards, such as Entrepreneur of the Year and Visionary Leader awards in 2016, and the NEXT Woman of the Year Business and Innovation Category in 2017.

She sits on several advisory boards including the Mental Health Foundation, Diversity Works NZ, Global Women, the Police Commissioner's Ethnic Focus Forum, and the Counties Manukau Police Advisory Board.

Fa'amatuaínu Tino Pereira MNZM

Patron of Wing 329

Fa'amatuaínu Tino Pereira is a prominent and experienced Pacific consultant on public sector issues and is an influencer of decision making and outcomes. He is a key advisor to many government departments.

Tino is Managing Director of Niu Vision Group, a specialist consultancy firm based in Wellington, and a noted governance practitioner and community leader with membership on many Government and private sector boards, committees and NGOs.

For more than 20 years he was involved in New Zealand's broadcasting sector as a journalist, broadcaster, and commentator on Pacific issues.

He has had significant community involvement for more than two decades including community leadership responsibilities.

Tino is a member of the Commissioner's National Advisory Forum and helped to develop Police's Pasifika strategy, O Le Taeao Fou – Dawn of a New Day.

Tino is of Samoan descent and holds the chiefly orator title of Fa'amatuaínu from Lufilufi in Samoa.

He was awarded the New Zealand Order of Merit (MNZM) in 2011 for services to the Pacific community.

Venkat Raman

Patron of Wing 328

Venkat Raman is a community leader who has been the editor of Indian Newslink, based in Auckland, for the past 20 years. In this role he provides a New Zealand-India perspective on current affairs and has had a focus on giving back to the community through Indian Newslink awards and scholarships.

Venkat Raman was born in Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu, in India and was educated in Bangalore. He has Masters qualifications in economics, journalism, and advertising and marketing.

With over 50 years of experience in journalism, Venkat Raman has worked for leading newspapers in India and the Arab Gulf and for Agence France Presse. He has been a contributor to the International Herald Tribune and The Economist, and was a correspondent for The National Business Review in Auckland from 1999–2011.

During his career, he has interviewed almost all major world leaders and has accompanied New Zealand prime ministers on their official overseas visits.

He sits on the Police Commissioner's National Focus Forum, Asian Advisory Board of the Auckland City District Police, South Asian Advisory Board of Counties Manukau Police, Waitemata District Advisory Board and the New Migrants Advisory Board of Massey University.

Venkat Raman is married to Uma Venkatraman and has a daughter, Ratna Venkat.

Dr Lance O'Sullivan

Patron of Wing 327

Dr Lance O'Sullivan is a doctor of medicine (a general practitioner) in Northland. He is a community leader and a medical innovator who aims to increase access to quality health care using digital technologies.

Lance has been recognised nationally as an advocate for ensuring health care is delivered to children with high health and social needs. Lance lives by the famous quote of Sir Fredrick Douglass that reflects the value of looking after our children: "It is easier to build strong children than to repair broken men."

He created New Zealand's first digital health program (iMOKO™) for children across the country. The program delivers health services to communities of children in minutes and hours rather than hours and days.

Lance wants to see our country lead the way in delivering innovative models of health care that provide more care to more people of higher quality for less cost, resulting in a fairer society.

He has been recognised for his community work and leadership through several awards, including 2014 Kiwibank New Zealander of the Year, 2013 Sir Peter Blake Emerging Leader Award, 2013 Public Health Association Health Champion Award, and 2013 Māori of the Year Award.

He is married to Tracy and they have seven children.

His iwi are Te Rarawa, Ngati Hau and Ngati Maru.

Russell Stanners

Patron of Wing 326

Russell Stanners has over 20 years' experience as a leader in tele-communications and digital technology. He has worked in leadership roles in well-known global technology companies IBM and Unisys, and until recently at Vodafone NZ as its Chief Executive Officer.

Russell was appointed Chief Executive Officer of Vodafone NZ in April 2005. Over the last 14 years he has led efforts to expand into the total communications market and reposition the business from a mobile operator to a full service communications company with a strong focus on innovation, customer service and value.

He joined Vodafone NZ in 2002 as Director of Business Markets and led this division for two years, growing revenues and market share before becoming Chief Executive Officer.

Prior to joining Vodafone NZ Russell was Managing Director of Unisys New Zealand Limited for two years, and before that he spent 15 years at IBM where he held a number of senior roles working in New Zealand, Asia Pacific and the US.

Russell has a Bachelor of Commerce degree from the University of Auckland.

New Zealand Police has been an important customer of Vodafone's for a number of years. Russell has been actively involved in the transformation and roll-out of mobility at New Zealand Police over the last five years both as a key partner and as a member of the Police's External Advisory Board.

Russell is a committed family man, married to Michelle and with three young adult children – Jessica and twins James and Nathan, all studying at Otago University and making their parents proud.

Russell says he is currently taking a break from work, having stepped down from his Vodafone NZ role in November 2018. He continues to be a passionate supporter of the Vodafone Warriors and has been active in the community through the Vodafone Foundation helping young people be the best they can be.

Paula Tesoriero MNZM

Patron of Wing 325

Paula Tesoriero MNZM is a world-champion athlete and a former senior public service manager, who is currently serving as the Disability Rights Commissioner.

A role within the Human Rights Commission, the Disability Rights Commissioner works to promote and protect the rights of disabled New Zealanders.

Paula is a governance expert having served on several boards including the Halberg Disability Sport Foundation, New Zealand Artificial Limb Service, Sport Wellington and Paralympics New Zealand. She is also a member of the New Zealand Sports Tribunal.

A law graduate from Victoria University, Paula has worked in private practice and as a General Manager at Statistics NZ and the Ministry of Justice.

Winning gold in a world-record breaking time at the Beijing Summer Paralympics in 2008, in the women's 500m time trial, and two bronze medals, her services to cycling were recognised when she was made a Member of the New Zealand Order of Merit in 2009. She retired as an athlete in 2010.

Paula says her role as the Disability Rights Commissioner enables her to make a meaningful contribution to changing the outcomes for New Zealanders living with disabilities, who make up nearly a quarter of our population.

Jenny-May Clarkson

Patron of Wing 323

Jenny-May Clarkson (née Coffin) is a well-known face on New Zealand television, as a news and sports presenter and a former sporting star.

Her sporting success was as a New Zealand Silver Fern netball player from 1997 to 2003 and a New Zealand Women's Touch Rugby player from 2000 to 2002.

Jenny-May played in 26 tests for the Silver Ferns, was vice captain in 2001, and competed at the Commonwealth Games in 2002, winning a silver medal.

After retiring from the Silver Ferns, she continued playing professionally for domestic sides, including Waikato Bay of Plenty Magic, Auckland Diamonds, Southern Steel and Northern Mystics. She retired from playing national netball in 2008.

Jenny-May became involved in sports commentary in 2003 during the Netball World Championships and soon after became a sports presenter for TVNZ. She is currently a presenter and reporter for One News and a presenter at Sky Sport for Netball Zone and Press Box.

Jenny-May's first career was in Police, serving for 9 years as a general duties constable in Hamilton. As a 20-year-old she joined Wing 150 in 1994 and recently returned to the Police College with basketball star Steven Adams to speak to and inspire local young people.

Born and raised in Piopio, in the King Country, Jenny-May now lives in Auckland. Her iwi is Maniapoto and her marae is Mokaukohunui.

The Hon Dame Annette King DNZM

Patron of Wing 322

The Honourable Dame Annette King is a former politician who has worked at a senior level of Government over many years, retiring in 2017 as Deputy Leader of the Opposition. Her political career spanned four decades, with Dame Annette first becoming a Member of Parliament in 1984.

Dame Annette grew up in Murchison in the Tasman region. After high school she completed a Diploma in School Dental Nursing and worked as a dental nurse from 1967 to 1981. It was during this time that she first became a political activist, working for better pay for dental nurses. She later gained a Bachelor of Arts in political studies and history from Waikato University and a Post Graduate Diploma in Dental Nursing. Dame Annette worked as a tutor at the Wellington School of Dental Nurses from 1982 to 1984.

She has been a Member of Parliament representing Horowhenua, Miramar and Rongotai electorates and was a Cabinet Minister for 10 years holding 15 portfolios. She was Minister of Police from October 2005 to November 2008 and has also held the key ministerial portfolios of Transport, Justice and Health.

In 1993 Dame Annette received the New Zealand 1990 Commemoration Medal (for making a recognised contribution to New Zealand) and the New Zealand Suffrage Centennial Medal (for making a recognised contribution to the rights of women and to women's issues in New Zealand), and in the 2018 New Year Honours list she was made a Dame Companion of the New Zealand Order of Merit for services as a Member of Parliament.

Dame Annette lives in Wellington. She chairs the Life Flight Trust of Wellington, is a member of a number of boards and committees, and is patron for several community organisations.

Brian Dickey

Patron of Wing 321

Brian Dickey is the Crown Solicitor for Auckland.

He has over 24 years' litigation experience and has conducted major cases in the criminal and civil jurisdictions. He is perhaps best known for the run of significant finance company cases, which he oversaw and conducted following the collapses in that sector from 2007.

Brian has conducted the most serious criminal cases up to and including murder trials and significant insolvency/commercial cases concerned with the Companies, Insolvency and Securities Acts.

As Crown Solicitor Brian oversees the conduct of Crown Prosecutions (serious crime) in the Auckland region under the authority of the Solicitor General.

Brian is a partner in law firm Meredith Connell and has an LLB from Victoria University of Wellington. He was admitted to the bar in 1990.

Carolyn Tremain

Patron of Wing 319

Carolyn Tremain has over 20 years' experience leading large, complex service delivery organisations and substantial change management programmes.

She is currently the Chief Executive of the Ministry of Business, Innovation & Employment (MBIE). The Ministry's purpose is to 'Grow New Zealand for all', with its role to create better outcomes for all New Zealanders, particularly by supporting business growth.

Carolyn came to MBIE from the NZ Customs Service, where she was the Chief Executive and Comptroller. Customs plays a critical role in New Zealand's economy and security through facilitating trade and travel and collecting Crown revenue.

In addition to her MBIE responsibilities, Carolyn is Chair of the Public Sector Auckland Career Board and is a member of the Victoria University of Wellington Business School Advisory Board.

Before joining Customs in 2011, Carolyn held the roles of Deputy Commissioner Service Delivery and Deputy Commissioner People, Capabilities, and Governance at Inland Revenue. She was responsible for frontline service delivery functions including audit and investigations, contact centres, customer operations, customer and product innovation, litigation management, and the integration of new government programmes.

Earlier in her career, Carolyn worked for Air New Zealand where she was head of Human Resources and Organisational Change for the Air New Zealand Group.

Carolyn holds a Bachelor of Arts from Victoria University, Wellington.

Laulu Mac Leauanae

Patron of Wing 318

Laulu Mac Leauanae is the Chief Executive of the Ministry for Pacific Peoples.

He came to the Ministry in July 2017 from the Pacific Cooperation Foundation where he was Chief Executive.

Prior to that role he was the General Manager of Pure Pacifika Limited, a company that exported horticultural products from the South Pacific primarily into Asian markets.

Before this Laulu worked in the primary healthcare sector for ProCare Health Limited. He was initially the Pacific Health Manager and within a year was promoted into senior management roles.

Earlier in his career he worked in Pacific community and business development with a role at the Pacific Business Trust. He started his career practising as a lawyer.

Laulu holds an MBA from Henley Management College, UK, with his dissertation focusing on 'Community Participation in Governance'. He also holds an LLB from Auckland University.

He is of Samoan descent and holds the chiefly title of Laulu from Fa'ala. His aiga reigns from Fa'ala, Iva and Sa'anaapu.

Judge Sir David Carruthers KNZM

Patron of Wing 317

Born and raised in Pahiatua, Judge Sir David Carruthers graduated in 1962 from Victoria University in Wellington with an LLB and completed his LLM (Hons) in 1964.

Sir David practised in Wellington before returning to Pahiatua to practice law in his home town. A move to Palmerston North and his own practice preceded his being appointed a Family Court Judge and Youth Court Judge in Wellington in 1985.

In 1995 Sir David was appointed Principal Youth Court Judge and in 2001 he was appointed Chief District Court Judge, a position he held until his retirement in 2005. Sir David was the Chairman of the New Zealand Parole Board from 2005 until his appointment as Chairman of the Independent Police Conduct Authority in April 2012. He retired from this role in August 2017.

Sir David has long been an outspoken supporter of restorative and therapeutic justice initiatives. He holds that it is better to involve communities directly in the criminal justice system in order to obtain better outcomes which reduce crime and acknowledge victims' concerns.

He has spoken at many international and national conferences and has been an author of papers presented in overseas seminars. In 2002 he chaired the Ministerial Taskforce on Youth Offending. In 2012 he received the prestigious Baer Award in Orlando, USA, for his contribution to the work of International Parole Authorities.

Sir David was made a Distinguished Companion of the New Zealand Order of Merit in 2005 for his services to the District Courts. He was knighted by the Governor-General in 2009.

Rt Hon Dame Patsy Reddy GNZM, QSO

Patron of Wing 316

Dame Patsy grew up in the Waikato and graduated from Victoria University with an LLM (First Class Honours). Before becoming Governor-General, she had a career in law, business, and the public sector.

Dame Patsy was the first female partner in the law firm Watts and Patterson. She spent 11 years at Brierley Investments, and co-founded Active Equities Limited. Dame Patsy had governance roles at several leading New Zealand companies.

Her public sector work has included work on pay equity, and reviews of New Zealand Intelligence and Security and the performance of several government agencies. She also acted as Chief Crown Negotiator of Treaty Settlements for Tauranga Moana and Te Toko Toru.

Dame Patsy's passion for the arts is reflected in her past governance roles at the New Zealand Film Commission, the New Zealand International Festival of the Arts, the Victoria University Foundation, the Victoria University Art Collection Trust, the Spark Art Trust, the Wellington Jazz Festival Trust, the Symphony Orchestra Foundation, and the New Zealand Film Archive.

As Governor-General, Dame Patsy's focus is on support for the arts, innovation, cultural diversity and initiatives that support sustainability and the environment.

Dame Patsy was appointed a Dame Companion of the New Zealand Order of Merit (DNZM) in 2014, which was promoted to Additional Dame Grand Companion of the New Zealand Order of Merit (GNZM) in 2016. She is also an Additional Companion of the Queen's Service Order (QSO).

Dame Patsy is married to Sir David Gascoigne.

Dame Jenny Shipley DNZM, PC

Patron of Wing 315

Dame Jenny Shipley was PM from late 1997 to late 1999. She held a number of Senior Ministerial positions in the New Zealand Government during the 1990s and was a key player in driving much of the New Zealand economic and social reform of that period.

Dame Jenny Shipley is an Independent Director for China Construction Bank NZ Ltd having served for 6 years on its global Board. She is Chairman of Genesis Energy and a number of other companies and organisations in New Zealand.

She is an avid promoter of the value and relevance of inclusion and diversity. She believes the Treaty of Waitangi is a gift to our nation and presents a personal challenge to us all.

She believes leadership matters and her passion is working with leaders who have the courage and competence to help “shape the future” of their communities, their companies or organisations and their country.

Dame Jenny is a Privy Councillor and in 2002 was appointed Dame Companion of the New Zealand Order of Merit by the Queen for her services to the New Zealand Parliament.

Dame Jenny has been married to Burton for 45 years, is the mother of two adult children and Meme to Otis, Flynn, Zara and Coco.

Sir Noel Robinson KNZM

Patron of Wing 314

Sir Noel Robinson KNZM is a successful businessman who has developed many significant business enterprises in New Zealand. He dedicates much of his time to philanthropic causes, using his business skills to benefit the community.

Although he is based in Auckland, Sir Noel has a special family connection to the Kapiti-Mana area. His mother was born in Paraparaumu and his grandfather owned one of the first general stores there.

Sir Noel was educated at St Kentigern College in Auckland. His first job was with Fisher and Paykel as an engineering cadet, working his way up to become a factory manager.

He then went out on his own, starting an appliance manufacturing business – Robinson Industries – which he built up to become a major company exporting 90% of their products. He sold this business in 2000.

Since then he has developed and built the very successful Highbrook Business Park in Auckland, and purchased Paraparaumu Airport, now called Kapiti Coast Airport, turning it into a regional airport.

Sir Noel has also focused his time on a huge range of charitable projects. He is currently Chairman of Second Nature Charitable Trust (which owns and runs the Vodafone Event Centre and Wero White Water Park, investing profits into youth education programmes), Chairman of the Sir Woolf Fisher Charitable Trust (which provides fellowships for school principals, teachers, and Police staff to undertake study overseas), and Trustee of the John Walker Find Your Field of Dreams Foundation (which helps young Aucklanders from areas of need become fit, active and healthy, for example by providing free swimming lessons).

In 2006 Sir Noel was knighted for services to the community and business.

Helene Quilter

Patron of Wing 313

Helene Quilter, a career public servant, has been Secretary of Defence and Chief Executive of the Ministry of Defence since assuming this role in December 2012. During her time as the Secretary of Defence, she has led a programme of change across all aspects of the organisation and the way it partners with other defence and security agencies. She is currently leading an ambitious transformation programme of military capability management.

Helene has over 38 years' experience in the Public Service. Immediately before her appointment as Secretary of Defence, she was a Deputy Commissioner at the State Services Commission where she provided leadership to chief executives to improve agency performance. Helene was responsible for managing the performance of chief executives in the justice, defence, intelligence and foreign affairs agencies on behalf of the State Services Commissioner.

She was previously a Deputy Chief Executive with the Ministry of Social Development.

Helene has a Masters Degree in Strategic Studies from Victoria University and serves as Public Sector Trustee on the Equal Employment Opportunities (EEO) Trust.

Outside of work Helene enjoys collecting art, reading, and cooking for friends and family.