I think that makes sense. I have made the change. There may be a few opportunities when we do the final request to reduce down the data with changes like that.

So we would split that table and have one table plans available to each EU. Then another table with each RSPs plans and technology?

Hi Jordan

There is some strange setting on my Outlook that means I don't get search results in chrono order (I thought they were, but apparently not...) so when I think I find the latest email it turns out it often isn't. I need to be more careful...

...I guess, in my head, if the RSP told us the plans available to each EU, and we had a table of their plans and the delivery technology, that would be more efficient than storing the technology of each plan for each EU for each RSP – I think there's a data centre right there! 😊

Happy to discuss

Hi John

I thought I was going crazy haha.

So are the tables for the fixed network providers and RSPs OK? Or do you think we need another table. I have made the other changes.

Cheers

Hi Jordan

Collecting up various discussions over the last week and my reflections on them:

I think we should add the following to our list of collected data:

To fixed network providers: For each EU listed, other technologies available and provided by the provider (eg copper, fibre, HFC, FWA, etc) – note that we only want technologies over which new connections will be provided

For FWA users: Is an external antenna installed? (Y/N)

For RSPs: A table of their retail services and the technologies they operate over.

I also think that we probably don't need the non-SFA question in TSO data – the TSO doesn't apply in SFAs, so unless we want this as a check, it doesn't tell us much...

Happy to discuss

Subject: RCS Draft Information Requests

Hi all

I have put together a couple of documents trying to define the data sets for our draft data request which we can discuss tomorrow. I should then be able to integrate feedback on Friday after the meeting. We will need to add some more specific detail to what we are requesting.

I have tried to combine the AMR, the Data map and John's data set he drafted for the intro meetings.

The information that we can collect at a later date through the annual industry questionnaire which could be the last of the dates we were proposing would be:

- Revenue data

- Investment data
- Some traffic data (not relevant to the RCS)
- Specialist questions (OECD/MoE)
- Churn

We could also ask the mobile connections numbers (for the AMR) later to help the MNOs as they will be providing quite a lot of data.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Ngā mihi
